8. Troubleshooting

Most issues with a dishwash bar are related to usage or storage. Refer to the following common scenarios:

- Not Lathering Enough: Ensure your sponge is sufficiently wet before rubbing it on the bar. If the bar is too dry, it may not produce enough lather.
- Bar Dissolving Too Quickly: This usually indicates improper storage. Ensure the bar is allowed to dry completely after each use and is stored in a well-drained soap dish, away from standing water.
- Residue on Dishes: Ensure you are rinsing dishes thoroughly under running water after washing. Excessive soap application or insufficient rinsing can leave residue.
