Official Product Video: Unboxing and How-To

Video: This official video demonstrates the unboxing process and initial setup of the Hatchimals HatchiBabies. It shows how to remove the egg from its packaging and activate the toy by removing the pegs from the bottom of the egg.

Operating Your HatchiBaby

In-Egg Interactions

Before hatching, your HatchiBaby will respond to your interactions. The more you play, the more excited it becomes, leading to hatching.

- Tickle: Tickle the bottom of the egg to make it wiggle and giggle.
- Heartbeat: Hold the bottom of the egg to your ear to hear its heartbeat.
- Tilt: Quickly tilt the egg upside down and right side up to play.
- Rock to Sleep: Hold the egg sideways and gently rock it to put your HatchiBaby to sleep.

Understanding Eye Colors (In-Egg)

Your HatchiBaby's eye colors indicate its mood and needs while still in the egg:

- Red: Upset - Rub the bottom of the egg.
- Orange: Gassy - Pat or tilt the egg to burp it.
- Yellow: Happy - Continue to care for the egg.
- Green: Sick - Rub the bottom or tilt the egg.
- Blue: Cold - Rub the bottom of the egg to warm it up.
- White: Sleepy - Rock to sleep.
- Off: Heartbeat - Hold the bottom of the egg to hear its heartbeat.
- Flashing Teal: Listening - Tap the egg.
- Rainbow: Time to Hatch - Your HatchiBaby is ready to hatch!

Hatching Process

When your HatchiBaby's eyes turn rainbow, it's ready to hatch. It needs your help and encouragement!

- Rub the Egg: Gently rub the bottom of the egg to encourage hatching.
- Tap Back: If you hear tapping from inside the egg, tap back to encourage your HatchiBaby.
- Hold the Egg: If you hear panting, hold the egg to your ear to hear its heartbeat.
- Keep Interacting: Continue holding and rubbing the egg until it begins to crack.
- Peel the Shell: Once the egg starts cracking, gently peel off the eggshell pieces to help your HatchiBaby emerge. Ensure all pieces are removed to allow free movement.

After hatching, you will find a secret message inside the egg that reveals if your HatchiBaby is a boy or a girl. Don't forget to fill out the included Hatchibirth Certificate with your baby's name and birth details!

After Hatching Play

Once hatched, your HatchiBaby is ready for continuous interaction. Its large, color-changing eyes will continue to communicate its feelings.

- Pet Head: Pet the back of its head for happy responses.
- Nuzzle Forehead: Nuzzle its forehead for affectionate sounds.
- Tilt Upside Down and Right Side Up: Tilt your HatchiBaby to play.
- Tickle Feet: Tickle its feet with quick, light touches.
- Rock to Sleep: Gently rock your HatchiBaby on its back to help it fall asleep.

Understanding Eye Colors (After Hatching)

After hatching, your HatchiBaby's eye colors indicate its mood and needs:

- Red: Upset - Pet and rock your HatchiBaby to calm it down.
- Orange: Gassy - Pat the back of its head to burp it.
- Yellow: Happy - Continue to play and interact.
- Green: Sick - Touch and hold its forehead to take its temperature. Give it its cuddle buddy.
- Blue: Cold - Rub the bottom of its feet to warm it up. Give it its cuddle buddy.
- Purple: Hungry - Feed it with its bottle.
- Pink: Scared - Pet its head or nuzzle its nose.
- White: Sleepy - Give it its cuddle buddy to help it sleep.

Playing with Accessories

Your HatchiBaby comes with several interactive accessories to enhance playtime:

- Bottle: When your HatchiBaby has purple eyes (hungry), put the bottle in its mouth and push down on its lower beak to feed it. If it gets too gassy (orange eyes), pat its back to burp it.

- Rattle: Hold the rattle to its chest with the 'H' facing you to make your HatchiBaby dance. You can also tap its toes for a drum beat.
- Brush: Use the brush to groom your HatchiBaby's hair.
- Cuddle Buddy: When your HatchiBaby has green eyes (sick) or white eyes (sleepy), hold the cuddle buddy to its chest with the 'H' facing you to comfort it or help it sleep. If it's upset with red eyes, the cuddle buddy can also help calm it down.
- Egg Nest: The bottom half of the egg serves as a nest. Place your HatchiBaby inside, aligning its wings with the wings inside the egg and its feet on the footprints. It will recognize it's in its nest and can rock and play. Give it the rattle while in the nest for music.
- High Chair: The egg's top half transforms into a high chair. Sit your HatchiBaby in the chair with its feet in the gaps and the middle cubby in front. The side pockets are perfect for storing accessories.

Games

Your HatchiBaby knows several fun games:

- Learn to Talk: Hold both of your HatchiBaby's feet. Its eyes will flash teal. Once solid, say something for up to 4 seconds. Let go, and it will repeat what you said.
- Peek-a-Boo: Cover your HatchiBaby's eyes and forehead with your hand for 3 seconds. Then, pull your hand away to play peek-a-boo. If it doesn't work, try moving your hand around on its forehead.
- Bouncy Baby: Hold its right foot for 3 seconds until its eyes flash blue and it makes a sound. The music will start, and it's time to play. Bounce your HatchiBaby forward and backward with the music. When the music stops, stop bouncing. Get 3 in a row to win the game.
- Animal Colors: Hold its left foot for 3 seconds until its eyes flash green. It will start making an animal sound. Tap its nose when the eye color matches the animal sound (Yellow = Chick)
