4. SETUP

4.1. Scope Mounting

The Gamo Swarm Fusion 10X GEN3i comes with a 3-9x40 scope. To mount the scope, align the scope rings with the Recoil Reducing Rail (RRR) on the rifle. Secure the scope using the provided screws, ensuring it is level and positioned for comfortable eye relief. The RRR system is designed to absorb shock and protect the scope from the intense recoil of the airgun.

4.2. Loading the 10X GEN3i Magazine

The 10X GEN3i magazine is designed for rapid reloading. To load pellets, rotate the magazine's internal mechanism and insert .22 caliber pellets one by one into each chamber. Ensure the pellets are seated correctly. Once loaded, insert the magazine into the rifle's breech area. The magazine will index automatically with each break of the barrel.

5. OPERATING INSTRUCTIONS

5.1. Cocking the Air Rifle

To cock the Gamo Swarm Fusion 10X GEN3i, firmly grasp the barrel and break it downwards until the internal mechanism engages. This action compresses the IGT gas piston and automatically indexes the next pellet from the magazine into the breech. Return the barrel to its original position until it locks securely.

5.2. Firing the Air Rifle

With the air rifle cocked and the safety disengaged (pushed forward), aim at your target. Place your finger on the trigger and apply steady pressure until the shot fires. The Custom Action Trigger (CAT) allows for independent adjustment of the first and second stages of trigger travel for a personalized feel.

5.3. Safety Mechanism

The air rifle is equipped with a safety mechanism located near the trigger. Push the safety lever backward to engage the safety (safe mode) and forward to disengage it (fire mode). Always engage the safety when the rifle is cocked and you are not ready to fire.

6. FEATURES AND TECHNOLOGY

- INERTIA FED RELOADING: The GEN3i magazine utilizes the rifle's recoil to cycle the next pellet, offering a low-profile, horizontal setup for smoother and more reliable loading.
- IGT GAS PISTON: Inert Gas Technology propels .22 caliber pellets up to 1000 fps. The gas piston reduces vibration and provides consistent power compared to traditional spring systems.
- WHISPER FUSION TECHNOLOGY: Gamo's advanced noise-reducing system features a double sound moderator with two chambers to control air and minimize sound during firing.
- CAT TRIGGER & RRR: The Custom Action Trigger allows independent adjustment of each stage for a customized pull. The Recoil Reducing Rail (RRR) absorbs shock to protect the included 3-9x40 scope.

7. MAINTENANCE

Regular cleaning and maintenance are crucial for the longevity and performance of your Gamo Swarm Fusion 10X GEN3i air rifle. Before initial use, it is recommended to clean the barrel to remove any factory residue. Use appropriate cleaning kits and follow the instructions for airgun barrel cleaning. Periodically check all screws and fasteners, especially those on the scope mounts, to ensure they are tight. Store the air rifle in a dry, secure location, away from unauthorized users.
