OPERATING YOUR FOREO BEAR

Microcurrent Technology

Microcurrent treatments use extremely low voltage electricity to stimulate cell growth in your skin. They can also stimulate facial muscles and collagen development, contributing to a more youthful appearance. These treatments are completely non-invasive and generally painless.

T-Sonic Pulsations

The device incorporates T-Sonic pulsations, a vibration mode designed to increase circulation, help eliminate toxins, and ease facial tension. This contributes to smoother, softer, and glowing skin.

Anti-Shock System

The FOREO Bear features an Anti-Shock System with sensors that measure your skin's resistance to electricity. It automatically adjusts the microcurrent intensity to eliminate any chance of inadvertently shocking yourself, ensuring maximum safety and comfort during use.

Usage Steps

1. Cleanse your face thoroughly.
2. Apply a thin layer of FOREO's conductive serum (or another water-based conductive product) to your face. Ensure your skin is well-covered for optimal microcurrent transfer.

3. Turn on your FOREO Bear device by pressing the power button. Select your desired microcurrent intensity level.
4. Gently glide the device across your face, following the contours of your jawline, cheeks, and forehead. Refer to the app for guided routines and specific movements for targeted areas.
5. Continue for approximately 2-3 minutes per session.
6. After use, rinse the device with water and dry it with a clean cloth.
