5. SETUP

5.1 Driver Installation

The AudioBox 96 is class-compliant on macOS. For Windows, you will need to install the latest drivers from the PreSonus website. Visit presonus.com/support/downloads, select your product, and download the appropriate driver.

5.2 Hardware Connection

1. Connect the USB cable from the AudioBox 96 to an available USB port on your computer. The Power LED on the front panel should illuminate.
2. Connect your microphones to the Mic/Inst inputs using XLR cables. If using condenser microphones, press the 48V button to supply phantom power.
3. Connect instruments (e.g., guitar, bass) to the Mic/Inst inputs using 1/4-inch TS cables.
4. Connect your studio monitors to the Main Out (L/R) jacks using 1/4-inch TRS cables.
5. Connect headphones to the Phones output.
6. If using MIDI devices, connect them to the MIDI In and MIDI Out ports.

5.3 Software Setup (Studio One Artist)

Your AudioBox 96 includes a license for PreSonus Studio One Artist. Follow these steps to install and activate the software:

1. Register your AudioBox 96 on the PreSonus website to receive your Studio One Artist product key.
2. Download and install Studio One Artist from your PreSonus user account.
3. Launch Studio One Artist and follow the on-screen instructions to activate the software using your product key.
4. In Studio One Artist, go to Studio One > Options (Windows) or Studio One > Preferences (macOS) and select your AudioBox 96 as the audio device.

Screenshot of the PreSonus Studio One Artist digital audio workstation (DAW) interface, displaying various tracks, effects, and mixing controls.

6. OPERATING THE AudioBox 96

6.1 Input Gain Adjustment

Turn the Gain knobs for inputs 1 and 2 clockwise to increase the input level. Observe the Clip LEDs; they should only flash occasionally on the loudest peaks. If a Clip LED stays lit, reduce the gain to prevent distortion.

6.2 Zero-Latency Monitoring

The Mixer knob allows you to blend the direct input signal (Inputs) with the playback signal from your computer (Playback). This provides zero-latency monitoring, meaning you hear your input signal without any delay, which is crucial for recording. Turn the knob towards 'Inputs' to hear more of your live signal, and towards 'Playback' to hear more of your computer's audio.

6.3 Phantom Power (48V)

Press the 48V button to provide +48V phantom power to both XLR inputs. This is required for most condenser microphones. Ensure dynamic microphones or ribbon microphones do not receive phantom power unless specifically designed to do so, as it can cause damage.

6.4 Recording with Studio One Artist

Once your AudioBox 96 is configured in Studio One Artist, you can:

- Create new tracks and assign their inputs to AudioBox 96 inputs 1 or 2.
- Arm tracks for recording and enable monitoring.
- Adjust levels within Studio One for mixing and playback.
- Utilize the included virtual instruments and effects to enhance your recordings.

7. MAINTENANCE

To ensure the longevity of your AudioBox 96:

- Clean the unit with a soft, dry cloth. Do not use liquid cleaners or solvents.
- Keep the unit free from dust and debris.
- Store in a cool, dry place when not in use.
- Avoid dropping or subjecting the unit to strong impacts.

8. TROUBLESHOOTING

Problem	Possible Solution
No sound from monitors/headphones.	Check all cable connections. Ensure Main and Phones knobs are turned up. Verify AudioBox 96 is selected as the audio device in your computer's sound settings and DAW.
Input signal is distorted.	Reduce the input Gain knob for the corresponding channel. Ensure the Clip LED is not constantly lit.
Microphone not working.	Check microphone cable. If using a condenser mic, ensure 48V phantom power is enabled. Verify gain is turned up.
Latency during monitoring.	Adjust the Mixer knob towards 'Inputs' for zero-latency direct monitoring. Check your DAW's buffer size settings (lower buffer size reduces latency but increases CPU load).
MIDI device not responding.	Ensure MIDI cables are correctly connected (Out to In, In to Out). Verify MIDI device is powered on and selected in your DAW's MIDI settings.
