AI Summary

Australian Treasurer Jim Chalmers acknowledges that US tariffs will have some negative effects on the Australian economy, including a potential decrease in GDP and rising prices, but he remains optimistic about continued economic growth.

AI Explain

In sentences 5 and 6, the passage discusses the impact of tariffs imposed by the Trump administration on Australian goods entering the United States. Specifically, it states that these goods are now subject to a 10% tariff, while other countries such as the EU, China, and various Asian nations are facing even higher tariff rates. This highlights the competitive disadvantage that Australia may experience compared to other countries due to these trade policies, which could further influence the Australian economy.
