2. The machine has a pre-programmed setting for 30 minutes.
3. Submerge your feet into the water.
4. The machine will automatically shut off after 30 minutes.
5. It is advised to use the detox foot bath twice a week. For long-term use, consider 4 times/week for 6-12 months.

Understanding Water Color Changes

The water in the foot bath will change color during operation. This is a result of the reaction between the positive and negative ions released by the machine and the minerals or salts present in the water. Even without feet submerged, the water will change color due to these reactions. The color will darken further when your feet are immersed.

Maintenance

Proper maintenance ensures the longevity and effectiveness of your ion arrays.

1. After each use, remove the ion array from the foot tub.
2. Simply spray the array with water and use a brush to clean any residue.
3. For deeper cleaning and maintenance, soak the ion array in vinegar.
4. With proper cleaning, each ion array can be used approximately 40 to 50 times.

Troubleshooting

- Water changes color without feet: This is normal. The water changes color due to the reaction between the ions and minerals/salts already present in the water. The color will intensify with feet submerged.
- Ion array doesn't create enough bubbles: If the array is not producing sufficient bubbles, try adding a bit more salt to the water to increase conductivity. If the issue persists, the array may be worn out and needs to be replaced with a new one.
