SETUP INSTRUCTIONS

Follow these steps to assemble your ORICO Vertical Laptop Holder:

- Unpack Components: Carefully remove all parts from the packaging. You should have two aluminum sections, two silicone support brackets, and four adhesive rubber pads.
- Insert Silicone Brackets: Take one silicone support bracket and slide its rounded ends into the cylindrical openings at the base of one aluminum section. Repeat for the second silicone bracket and the other aluminum section.
- Join Sections: Connect the two aluminum sections by sliding the remaining rounded ends of the silicone support brackets into the corresponding cylindrical openings of the second aluminum section. The stand should now form a stable 'U' shape.
- Apply Rubber Pads: Peel the backing from the four adhesive rubber pads and apply them to the bottom corners of the stand. These pads provide stability and protect your desk surface.

- Storage: When not in use, store the stand in a cool, dry place.

TROUBLESHOOTING

Problem	Possible Cause	Solution
Stand feels unstable or wobbly.	Not assembled correctly; placed on an uneven surface; rubber pads missing or worn.	Ensure silicone brackets are fully inserted. Place on a flat, stable surface. Check and re-apply/replace rubber pads if necessary.
Laptop not securely held.	Laptop too thin for gravity mechanism; silicone pads are dirty or worn.	Ensure the laptop is centered. Clean silicone pads. If the laptop is exceptionally thin, consider adding a thin protective sleeve to increase thickness slightly.
Scratches on laptop or stand.	Silicone protective mats are dislodged or missing.	Verify that all silicone protective mats are correctly in place on the aluminum sections.
