6.2. Call Functionality with Apps (e.g., LINE)

When making calls through certain communication applications (e.g., LINE), incoming call notifications may be heard through the earphones. However, functions such as microphone control, volume adjustment, answering calls, or hanging up may need to be managed directly from your smartphone, not the headset buttons. This is due to the software design of the application itself, not a defect in the earphone or receiver. This behavior is common across many wireless headsets.

6.3. Other Issues

- Connection Instability: Ensure there are no obstructions between the receiver and the paired device. Reduce the distance between devices.
- Poor Audio Quality: Confirm that your source device supports aptX for optimal sound. Ensure the wired earphones are fully plugged into the receiver.

- Device Not Responding: Try resetting the device by powering it off and on. If issues persist, ensure the battery is charged.
