TROUBLESHOOTING

Problem	Possible Cause	Solution
Litter or liquid leaking from the enclosure.	Litter box overfilled. Cat urinates high or outside the litter box. Gaps in the handwoven rattan.	Ensure the litter box is not overfilled. Consider using a litter box with higher sides or a different type of litter box if your cat consistently urinates high. If gaps appear in the handwoven rattan, gently push the rattan strands from the bottom up to restore their position.
Persistent odors despite filter.	Filter needs cleaning or replacement. Litter box not cleaned regularly.	Clean the odor filter thoroughly or replace it if it's old or damaged. Scoop the litter box daily and perform full litter changes as recommended by your litter type.
Cat reluctant to use the enclosure.	New environment for the cat. Litter type preference.	Allow your cat time to adjust. You can place a familiar item inside to encourage use. Ensure the litter type is one your cat is accustomed to and prefers.
