4. Figure Articulation and Action Feature

Your Aang figure features multiple points of articulation and a unique battle action:

- Articulation: The figure has 14 points of articulation, allowing for various poses. Gently move the joints at the neck, shoulders, elbows, wrists, waist, hips, and knees to position Aang as desired.
- Battle Action: To activate Aang's unique battle action, gently pull the figure's right arm back. This action is designed to simulate air bending movements with the staff.

5. Care and Maintenance

To ensure the longevity of your Aang action figure, follow these care guidelines:

- Cleaning: Wipe the figure with a soft, dry cloth. For stubborn dirt, a slightly damp cloth can be used, but avoid harsh chemicals or abrasive cleaners.
- Storage: Store the figure away from direct sunlight, extreme temperatures, and high humidity to prevent discoloration or material degradation.
- Handling: Handle the figure gently, especially when posing articulated joints or attaching accessories, to prevent breakage.

6. Troubleshooting

If you encounter any issues with your Aang figure, consider the following:

- Staff or Air Effects Not Staying in Place: Ensure the staff is fully inserted into Aang's hand and the air effects are firmly attached to the staff ends. If parts are loose, gentle pressure may be needed to secure them. Avoid excessive force.
- Stiff Joints: If a joint is stiff, try gently wiggling it back and forth to loosen it. Do not force the joint, as this may cause damage.
- Loose Joints: Over time, some articulated joints may become looser. This is typical with repeated use.
