CARE & MAINTENANCE

- Keep it Clean: Wipe the book and music player down with a wet cloth every so often to get rid of dust and fingerprints.
- Avoid Too Much dampness: To keep the book or music player from getting damaged, don't submerge them in water or leave them in too much dampness.
- Store Correctly: Keep the book somewhere dry and cool when not in use to protect the materials and keep the music player working well.

- Look for Damage: Check the book and music player for signs of wear like torn pages or broken buttons every so often.
- Limit Exposure to Direct sunshine: To keep the colors and illustrations from fading, don't put the book in direct sunshine.
- Watch Young Children: To keep them from breaking anything, kids should always be watched while they use the book and music player.
- Check the Sound: Make sure the sound buttons are always working by pressing them and changing the batteries as needed.
- Carefully Handle: Teach kids to be gentle with the book and music player so they last longer and keep their features.
- Carefully keep the book: When not in use, put it somewhere flat or upright so it doesn't bend or warp.
- Keep the book and music player away from things that are sharp and could poke holes in the pages or tear them.
- Encourage Proper Use: Teach kids to gently press buttons and not to force them to work if they don't. This will teach them to respect the goods.
- Fix Small Damage: If there are small tears, you might want to use tape to hold the area in place until it can be fixed properly.
- As needed, change the batteries. If the sound quality starts to get worse, check the music player's batteries and replace them if necessary to make sure it works at its best.
- Limited Germ Exposure: To avoid spreading germs, don't share the book and music player in busy places.
