"I got the chance to put conventional holiday aesthetics on its head, adding playfulness and boldness. This is my interpretation of Christmas. It's a new design for a new generation."

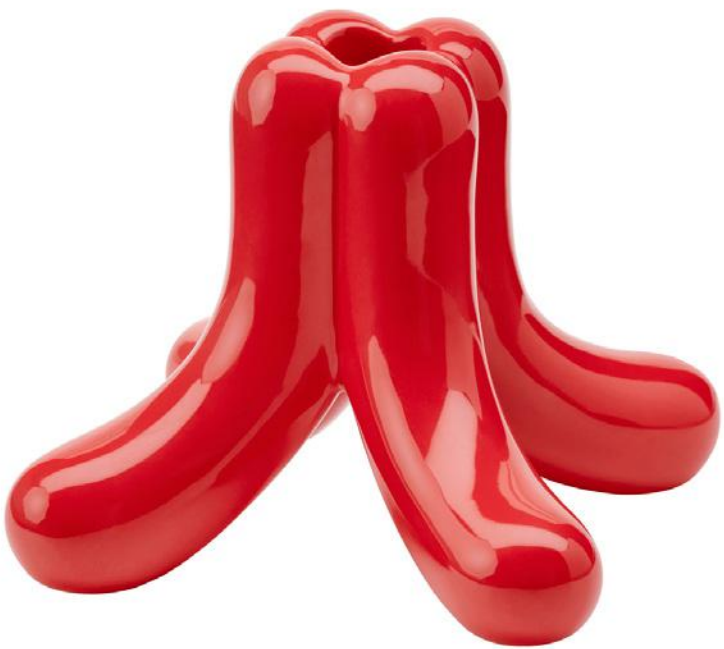

Gustaf Westman, Designer

SPECIAL GUEST

Gustaf Westman

Gustaf Westman is a Stockholm-based designer bringing a bold perspective to Scandinavian design. Since founding his studio in 2020, he's become known for this curvy, colourful and playful approach to furniture and homeware. Influenced by fashion and continuous forms, Westman's work stands for simplicity, strong identity and approachable appeal.

We've teamed up with him to reimagine the holidays – adding bold colour, fresh energy and a new perspective to the season. Together, we've created pieces for the VINTERFINT and STRÅLA collections that put a modern spin on classic holiday design.

Playful Christmas

Playful parties

Not feeling the traditional festive vibe? Gustaf Westman's designs show that celebrations don't have to follow the expected playbook. Set the scene for an unconventional holiday gathering and turn every meal into a fun moment your guests won't forget.

Rethinking Christmas

Challenging traditional holiday style was central to our brief – and one of the reasons we approached Gustaf Westman. Still, the collection was created with one of our core values in mind: Tillsammans (togetherness).

Play with food – Christmas edition

Whether you're serving meatballs, sushi, or chocolate pralines, these plates are ready to roll with your festive meals.

"For many people in Sweden, there's no Christmas – and no IKEA – without meatballs. So, when I came up with the idea of a meatball plate, I had to explore it. The result is a fun serving plate that works for all small savoury or sweet treats, not only for meatballs."
