What to Look For
FACTORS YOU NEED TO CONSIDER

Space

Begin by measuring height, depth and width. Make sure to take into account door opening, ventilation, cleaning space and how you'll get the refrigerator in the house and kitchen.

Capacity

Choose a refrigerator with enough cubic feet for your family needs.
One Adult - 4-6 cu.ft.
A Couple - 12-16 cu.ft.
Family of Four - 20 cu.ft and above

Design

Once you understand the size of the refrigerator you'll need, look at the design and configuration that will suit your lifestyle needs.

Efficiency

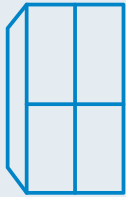

Know your refrigerator's efficiency by checking its cost to operate per day.

Durability

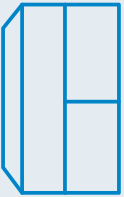

Keep your food fresh longer with a refrigerator that comes with a 10-year warranty on the compressor.

THE RIGHT REFRIGERATOR FOR YOU

The French door refrigerator is a great combination of side-by-side and bottom-freezer configurations. The French doors are located at the top and offer a spacious refrigerator compartment that stores everything from large platters to pizzas with ease.

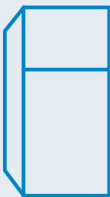

Side-by-Side Plus

In a Side-by-Side Plus, the refrigerator and freezer compartments are more equal in size which takes up most of the refrigerator's height. It also comes with a 3 door system and a customized cooling compartment that lets you store a variety of foods and drinks at optimal temperature.

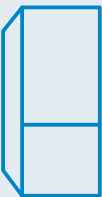

Side-by-Side

Side-by-Side, gives you storage freedom and size. You can now store more, and keep your food fresh without thinking about refrigerator space in your home.

Top Mount

Top-freezers have the freezer compartment positioned above the refrigerator unit. It comes in a wide variety of sizes and can be a good choice as a second refrigerator/freezer for the garage or basement.

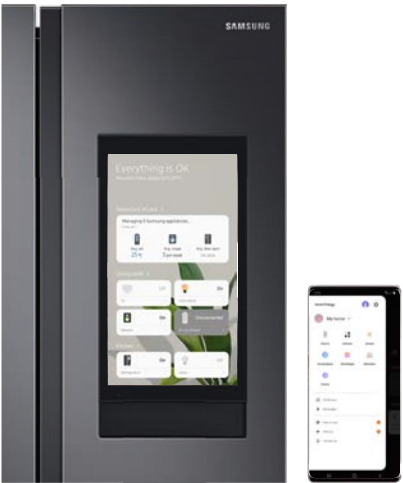

Bottom Mount

Bottom-freezers have the freezer compartment positioned below the refrigerator unit which offers easy access to fresh foods.
