ENERGY RECOVERY VENTILATION

Thank you for your purchase of the AprilAire Energy Recovery Ventilator (ERV). Your ERV is designed to remove indoor air pollution and provide fresh air to the home. There is increasing evidence that the air in our homes is more polluted than once thought. Research indicates that people spend approximately 90% of their time indoors, potentially breathing polluted, stale, recirculated air. This poses a health risk, and while the levels of pollutants from individual sources may not pose a significant risk to health by themselves, most homes have multiple sources of pollutants, which can have a cumulative effect. Your ERV will work to provide a supply of fresh air to your home and remove indoor air pollution.

The AprilAire Energy Recovery Ventilator uses the indoor stale exhaust air to precondition the incoming fresh air, depending on the season. For example, during the heating season, the cross-flow design of the core uses the warm, stale air being exhausted to pre-heat the incoming cool, fresh air, reducing the energy required by the heating system to maintain comfort.

This same process removes heat and moisture from the incoming air during the summer. The ERV provides a year-round comfortable and healthy environment for your entire home with minimal maintenance requirements and trouble-free, quiet operation.

SAFETY INSTRUCTIONS

⚠ WARNING

ELECTRIC SHOCK HAZARD: 120 volts may cause serious injury from electric shock. Disconnect electrical power to the HVAC system and ventilator before servicing. Leave power disconnected until service is completed.

OPERATING INSTRUCTIONS

The Energy Recovery Ventilator features a three-position speed switch, with I or II settings used for establishing continuous operation mode or the STANDBY/OFF mode. When the on/off switch on the ERV is turned to I, your home will receive a constant supply of fresh air.

The ERV operation can also be controlled with an AprilAire Thermostat with IAQ Control or an AprilAire Model 8120X Ventilation Control, allowing ventilation to occur on a schedule. Consult your installing contractor for more information about the AprilAire Thermostat with IAQ Control. If the ERV is to be controlled by an external control, move the speed switch to the STANDBY/OFF mode.

MAINTENANCE

1. Unplug the unit before opening the access panel and performing maintenance.
2. Dirty filters increase air resistance in the system and can reduce air flow. Clean or replace the filters as often as required, but at least 3 to 4 times per year. Clean the filter with running water or a vacuum cleaner. Ensure the filters are dried prior to reinstallation.
3. To maintain the high heat exchange efficiency, regular cleaning of the core is required. To clean the energy recovery core, remove the two screws that secure the core, and pull the core out of the unit. Gently clean the air passages by using a vacuum with a soft brush attachment. The core can also be cleaned with ONLY water if needed. Do not use sharp objects, abrasive detergents, or aggressive solvents as these can cause damage to the core. Make sure that the energy recovery core is dry, and re-install it in the unit.
4. Check the outdoor intake and exhaust vents every six months and clean if necessary.
5. Blower compartments should be inspected for debris buildup every six months and vacuumed/cleaned if necessary. No maintenance is required for the blower motor.
