NFC Technology Location

iPhone

Android

Where To Scan On Your Device

iPhone: On Apple devices, NFC (Near Field Communication) technology is typically located near the top right edge of the iPhone, around the rear camera area.

Android: Android devices, the placement of NFC can vary but is commonly found on the back of the phone near the center or towards the top, depending on the manufacturer and model.

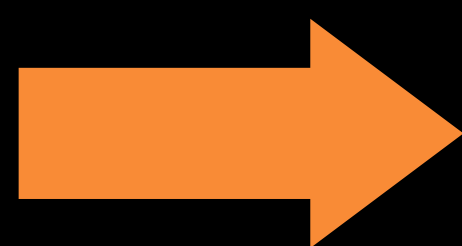

BEST PRACTICE

Best Method (Scan From Lock Screen)

Step 1: Unlock your phone

Step 2: Lock your phone again, then display your lock screen

Step 3: Scan stand/card (hover your phone about 2 inches from card/stand)

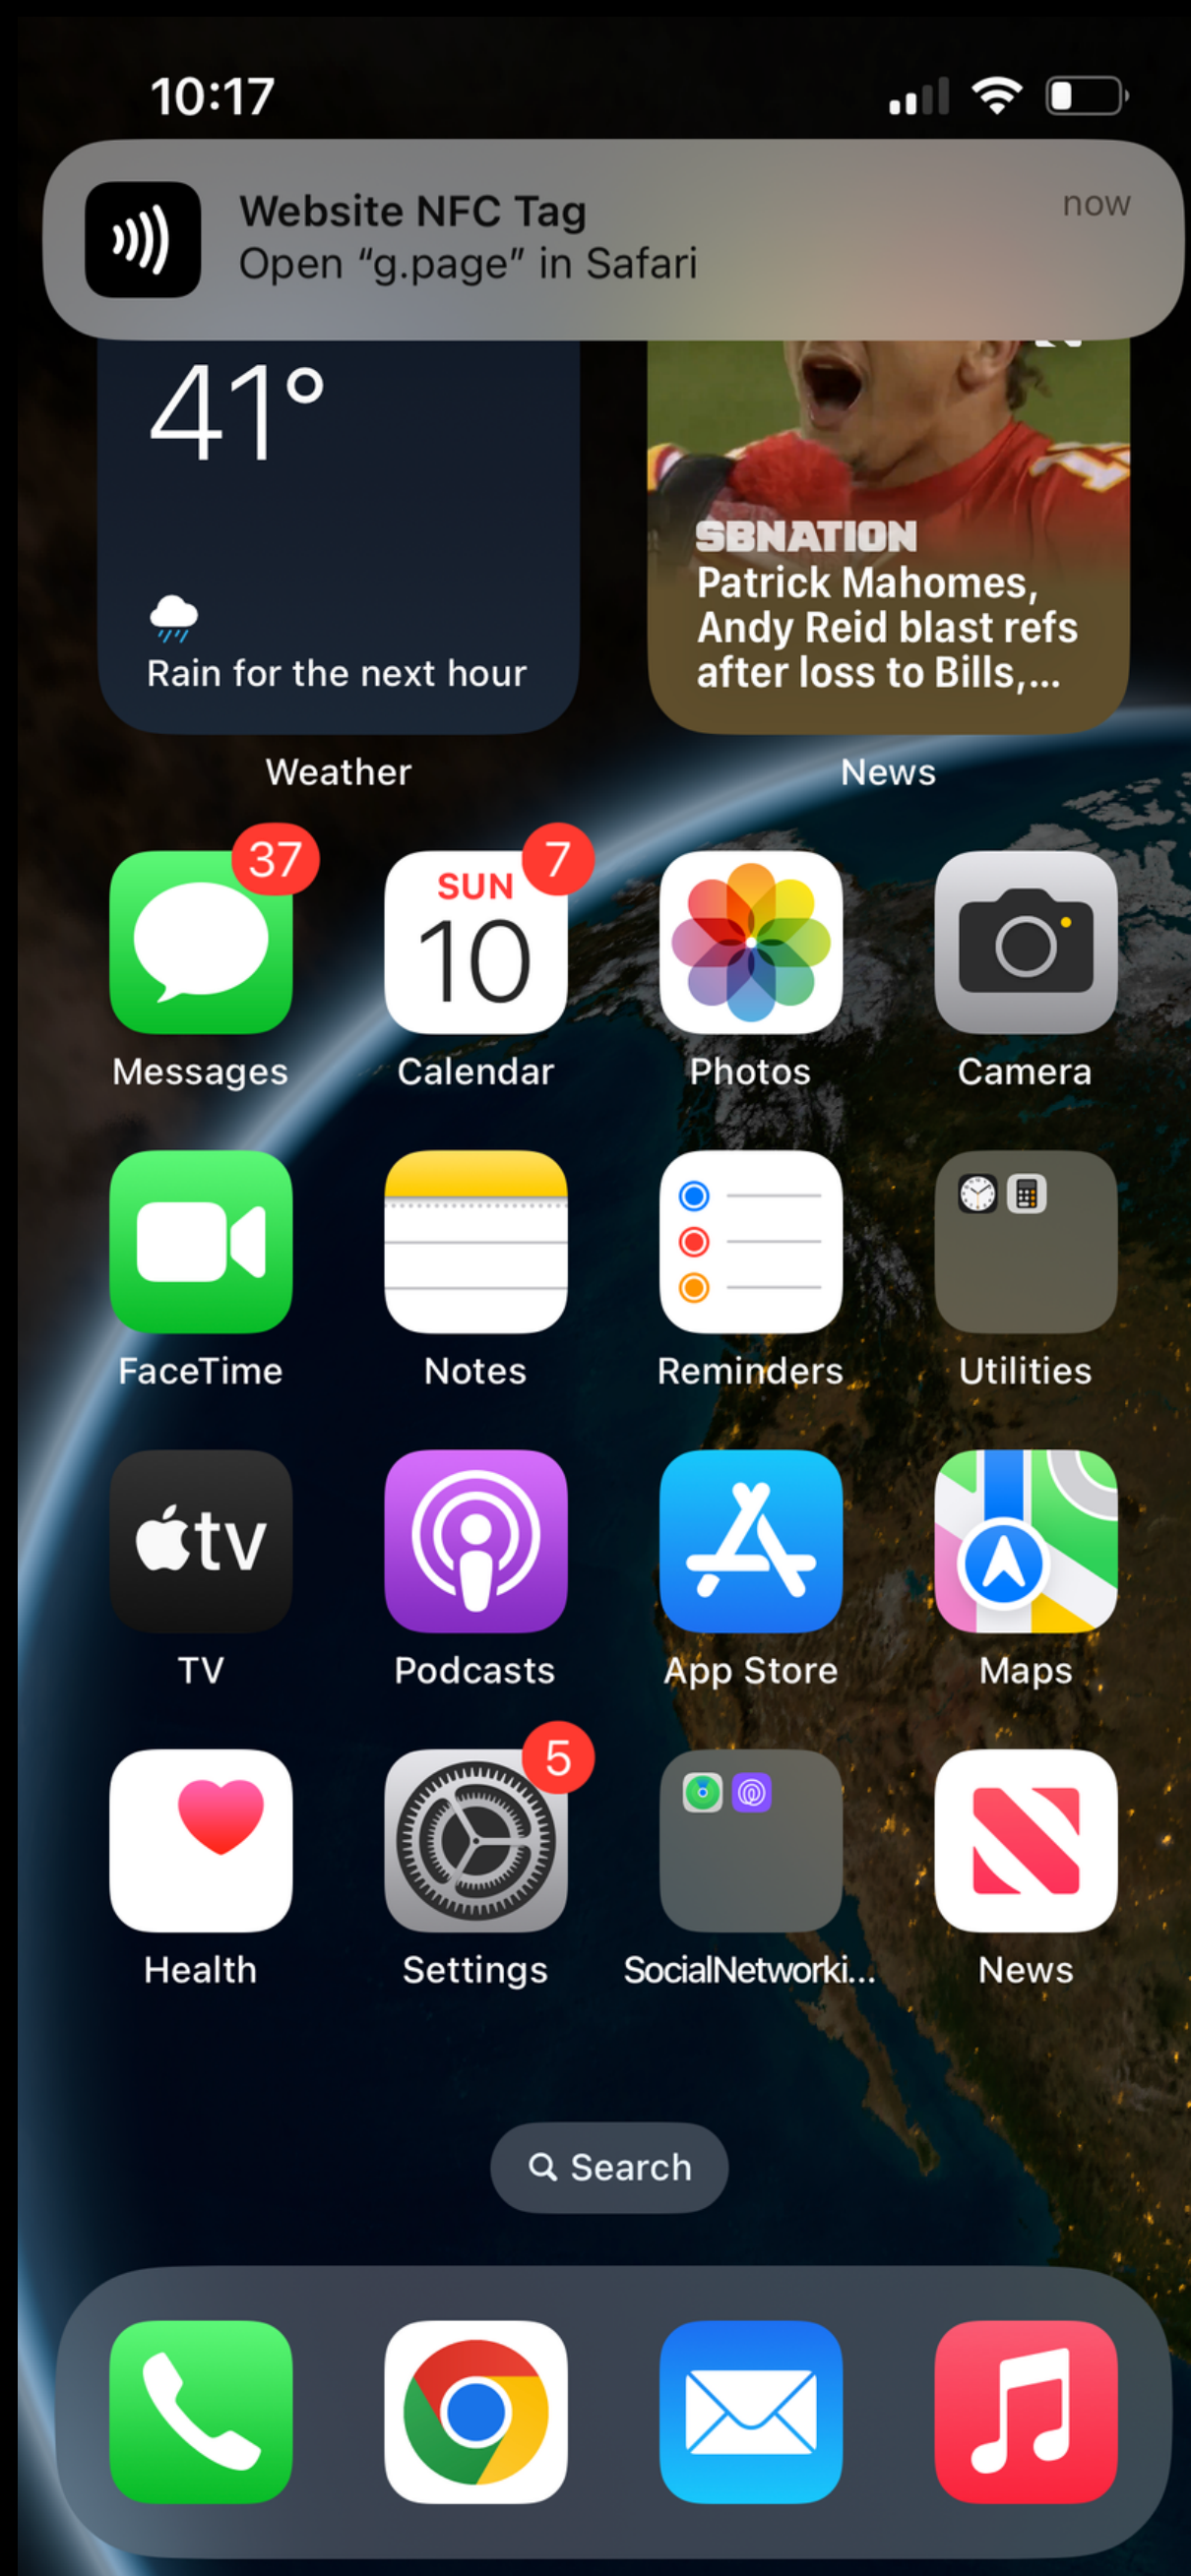

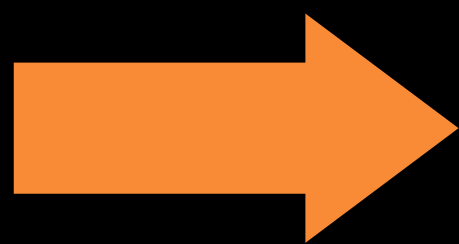

BEST PRACTICE Contin.

Method #2 (Scan From Home Screen)

Step 1: Unlock your phone

Step 2: Lock Your Phone, then unlock your phone again until the home screen is showing

Step 3: Tilt phone horizontally and scan stand/card slightly moving your phone in a circular motion ((hover your phone about 2 inches from card/stand))

Trouble Shooting

1. Scan Multiple Times - there are times where Rexch cards/stands will not scan on the first initial try. Scan as many times as possible until the Google review link pops up on screen.

2. Check your Byte Size - Your link will not upload to your card/stand if it's over 1,000 bytes. If this is the case, you will need to make your link size smaller. You can do this by using a link shortening website such as <https://bitly.com/> or others.

If this is the case, make sure you delete your old records and repeat steps 2-6.

3. Erase Tag - Click “other” on the home page of the NFC Tools App and then click Erase Tag. Repeat steps 2-6 until you successfully upload link to card/stand.
