Making sure accessibility and aesthetics go hand-in-hand

In our business, no two jobs are ever alike, but this one stands somewhat out compared to the typical installations we and our distributors have in the order book.

For centuries people from across Europe have visited the German spa and therapy centers, including Bad Brambach, located in southern Saxony.

In Bad Brambach, which is known for its thermal springs, you can visit the newly built therapy center, owned by the state of Saxony. Here, arthritis patients and people with skin diseases can enjoy the pain-relieving springs.

Access for people with disabilities and aesthetics were highly prioritized in the new wellness center, and WinnCare's Luna ceiling hoists and tracks were the perfect choice for these unique buildings.
