Five Years of Stories, Spirit, and Studio Magic

When I founded The Collective Book Studio five years ago, I wasn't just starting a business—I was building a new kind of publishing home. One that champions creativity, collaboration, and purpose. I believed then, as I do now, that books have the power to spark connection and conversation—and that the process of making them should be as thoughtful as the stories they tell.

Five years later, I'm incredibly proud of our team—the talented, passionate individuals who bring our books to life with care and purpose. Their creativity, commitment, and belief in our mission have helped us grow.

What began as a small idea has evolved into one of Publishers Weekly's fastest-growing independent publishers. We've landed New York Times and USA Today bestsellers. And our books have reached a global audience, making their way into the hands of so many readers.

Together, we've celebrated titles that have sold tens of thousands of copies, from The Fly Who Flew to Space (over 45,000 copies sold) to Friday Night Cocktails, *Houseplants and Their F*cked-Up Thoughts*, 52 Shabbats, and Embrace the Work, Love Your Career. Beloved children's books like Noodles, Please!, I Hope You Will Know, and No One Owns the Colors have sparked joy, learning, and conversation.

Each book represents more than a milestone—it represents our authors' creativity, our team's care, and the support of our “bookish” community.

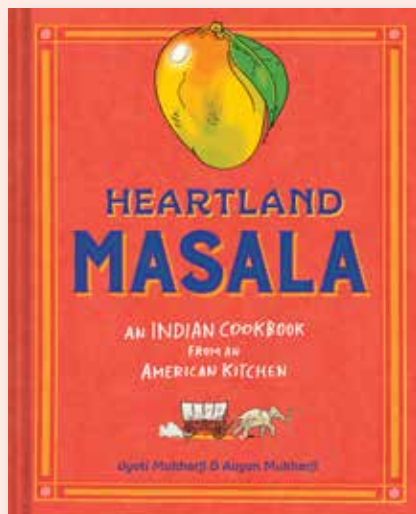

This anniversary isn't just about celebrating numbers—it's about celebrating people. The passionate creatives behind our books. The dedicated team behind the scenes. The booksellers who hand-sell our titles. And you—the community that's helped us grow from a seed of an idea to a vibrant, thriving Independent Press.

Here's to five years of bold storytelling, beautiful design, and books that matter. And here's to the next chapter—because we're just getting started.

With heartfelt gratitude,

Angela Engel
