one nz 111 Contact Code Vulnerable Consumer Register

The 111 Contact Code (111 Code) is a service created by the Commerce Commission to ensure that Vulnerable Consumers have reasonable access to an appropriate means of calling 111 emergency services in the event of a power failure. This is particularly important for newer home phone services such as voice calling over broadband, which rely on an active working broadband service and won't work in the event of a power failure, without an independent power source. The 111 Code requires Telecommunication Service Providers to supply Vulnerable Consumers with an alternative solution to contact 111 in an emergency.

You can apply to be on the Vulnerable Consumer Register for health, disability, or safety reasons. If you're unsure whether your condition would qualify you for the Vulnerable Consumer Register, please speak with your doctor, social worker, lawyer, or contact One New Zealand.

Consumers at high risk of personal safety are also eligible for support provided under the Vulnerable Consumer service. This support also applies to Consumers and their dependants who are or were in a close relationship with someone who has had a protection order served against them in favour of the applicant.

If you are a One New Zealand account holder and you or someone in your household has a medical condition that depends on copper landline telephone access for critical medical support, you can apply to be placed on our Medical Dependency Register. This will ensure that the medically dependent person is not unduly placed at risk when connecting, disconnecting, maintaining, or repairing faults with their telecommunications service.

After applying, you'll receive a response within 10 working days to communicate the outcome of your application. If your vulnerability is permanent, then One New Zealand will contact you every 12 months to confirm that you still require their support service.

Indicative list of eligible health, disability and safety criteria

You'll be eligible to apply for the Vulnerable Consumer status if:

- You (or someone in your household) is at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service due to health, disability or safety reasons.
- Your medical condition depends on copper landline telephone access for critical medical support.

Types of supporting evidence

You can supply the contact details of a Nominated Person, so that One New Zealand can verify the vulnerability with them. A Nominated Person is someone who is competent to give an opinion on whether you/the person residing at the address is at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service. Examples of Nominated Persons include doctors, social workers, and lawyers. Alternatively, you can provide evidence such as a medical certificate or a letter from a support agency.

Important things to know

If any of the following scenarios apply, you'll need to reapply:

- Your medical condition has changed.
- You've moved to a new address.
- Your contact details have changed.

If you move to another Telecommunications Service Provider, you'll need to discuss your vulnerability and dependency requirements with them.

What is the 111 Contact Code?

The Commerce Commission's 111 Contact Code ("111 Code") was created to ensure that Vulnerable Consumers have reasonable access to an appropriate means of calling 111 emergency services in the event of a power failure.

Newer home phone services such as voice calling over broadband, which rely on an active working broadband service, won't work in the event of a power failure, without an independent power source. The 111 Code requires Telecommunication Service Providers to supply Vulnerable Consumers with an alternative solution to contact 111 in an emergency.

You'll be eligible to apply for the Vulnerable Consumer status if:

1. You (or someone in your household) is at particular risk of needing to call 111 emergency services for health, safety, or disability reasons; and
2. You have a voice calling over broadband service provided over Fibre, HFC, VDSL, ADSL or Wireless technology and you, or someone you live with, do not have access to a traditional copper phone line. Note: The Code only applies to landline voice services. Broadband only customers cannot apply; and
3. You (or a person in your household) have no means to contact the 111 emergency service at the premises, or the means that you do have can't be operated for a continuous 8-hour period in the event of a power failure. If you, or someone in your household, qualifies, One New Zealand will work with you to determine the right solution for your particular needs, and at no cost to you.

Please ensure that you read through this information guide and the accompanying form carefully before submitting an application.

Important things to know

- Telecommunication Service Providers cannot deny or cease supply of a landline service to you on the basis that we know or suspect that someone in your household is, or may become, a Vulnerable Consumer.
- Certain modern telecommunications services require power to function, this is not unique to One New Zealand.
- You may apply as a Vulnerable Consumer for health, safety or disability reasons.
- The Vulnerable Consumer Register is separate to the Medical Dependency Register. However, you can indicate your interest in enrolling on the Medical Dependency Register within the Vulnerable Consumer Application Form.

- We can't guarantee continuous or fault-free service, as events within or beyond our control may cause a temporary loss of service.
- While we will try our best to inform you in advance if services will be unavailable, we may not always be able to.
- We recommend having a back-up plan in place, just in case. For example if the mobile network is impacted along with the power line services.

Indicative list of eligible health, disability and safety criteria

You can apply to be on the Vulnerable Consumer Register for health, disability or safety reasons. If you're unsure whether your condition would qualify you for the Vulnerable Consumer Register, please speak with your doctor, social worker, lawyer, or contact us.

- Unstable angina.
- Acute myocardial infarction within the last 6 months.
- On a waiting list for aortic aneurysm, coronary or carotid artery surgery.

Other dependent Consumers who live alone, without support or in remote locations

Patients with other dependent medical conditions with a lesser risk of rapid deterioration may qualify for Vulnerable Consumer registration only if they live alone, without social support, or in a remote location, for example:

- Dialysis patients.
- Oncology patients.
- AIDS patients.
- Patients with Haemophilia or other bleeding disorders.

Consumers at high risk of personal safety

The support provided under the Vulnerable Consumer service also applies to Consumers and their dependants who are or were in a close relationship with someone who has had a protection order served against them in favour of the applicant.

Consumers at high risk due to disability

- Sensory Impairment
- Intellectual Impairment
- Physical Impairment

Types of supporting evidence

The following are examples of the type of evidence that may be sufficient to support an application:

- a completed Notice of Potential Medically Dependent Consumer (MDC) Status' form, which include a certification from a District Health Board (DHB), Private Hospital or GP;
- a protection order;
- a letter from a health practitioner; or
- documentation of impairment.

Alternatively, you can supply the contact details of a Nominated Person, so that we can verify the vulnerability with them. A Nominated Person is someone who is competent to give an opinion on whether you/the person residing at the address is at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service. Examples of Nominated Persons include:

Health or Disability

A health practitioner (for example, a GP or specialist)

Safety

- a police officer,
- a currently registered social worker,
- a lawyer (with a current practicing certificate); or
- a family court judge

Medical Dependency Register

If you are a One New Zealand account holder and you or someone in your household has a medical condition that depends on copper landline telephone access for critical medical support, you can apply to be placed on our Medical Dependency Register. This will ensure that the medically dependent person is not unduly placed at risk when connecting, disconnecting, maintaining, or repairing faults with their telecommunications service.

What happens after applying?

We'll respond to you within 10 working days to communicate the outcome of your application.

If your application is successful:

- You will be notified in writing, phone call, or via email;
- We will communicate with you what solution we believe will allow you to continue to contact 111 in an emergency; and
- We'll arrange for the supply and delivery of your solution as soon as practicable.

If your application is unsuccessful:

- You will be notified in writing or via email.
- We will communicate with you the reason for why you were unsuccessful.
- If you're unsuccessful due to an incomplete application we will work with you to ensure it is completed in full.
- We will provide you with the details of an independent disputes process.

FAQs

• What if my details change or I change to another provider?

You'll need to notify us if:

- You move house (in case the technology at the new location changes)
- Your vulnerable status changes (the service may no longer be needed/may be required on permanent basis);
- The name on your account changes (to ensure that we have up to date details)

You'll need to reapply if any of the above scenarios apply.

If you move to another Telecommunications Service Provider, you'll need to discuss your vulnerability and dependency requirements with them.

• How long will I stay on the Vulnerable Consumer Register?

This will depend on the nature of the vulnerability and whether it is permanent or temporary. If you have a temporary vulnerability, you will remain on the Register for the length of time specified in your application, and as indicated in your supporting evidence. If your vulnerability is permanent, then we'll contact you every 12 months to confirm that you still require our support service.

• How can I be removed from the register?

If your circumstances change and you no longer need to be enrolled on the Vulnerable Consumer Register, please get in contact with us.

• How much does it cost to be on the Vulnerable Consumer Register?

We don't charge customers for applying to be on our Vulnerable Consumer Register. However, you may incur costs when obtaining supporting evidence for your application (for example, from your doctor).

• How will One New Zealand use the the personal information provided?

When you apply to be on our Vulnerable Consumer Register, we'll use your information, or that of the individual with the vulnerability, to:

- Assess your/their eligibility to be on the Vulnerable Consumer Register;
- Report the status of those on our register to the Commerce Commission as required under the 111 Code;
- Provide, administer and manage the Register; and
- Provide, administer and manage your services.

• What happens if my application is unsuccessful?

- If you want to raise a complaint about the process or how your application was handled, the account holder should email 111register@one.nz, and one of our team will be in touch with the account holder to discuss and attempt to resolve any issues.
- If you have already made a complaint directly to us related to the 111 Contact Code or an application to be a Vulnerable Consumer, and you are not happy with the resolution, or five working days have passed and nothing has been resolved, you can ask the Telecommunications
- Dispute Resolution Scheme (TDR) to intervene. TDR will formally engage with One New Zealand towards a resolution.
- The account holder can raise a dispute with One New Zealand or the TDR on behalf of themselves or another person from the same household.
- If you think that One New Zealand is not complying with the 111 Contact Code you can raise a complaint directly with the Commerce Commission at contact@comcom.govt.nz, or phone the Commission's Enquiries team on 0800 943 600, however, the primary method for making a complaint is to refer a dispute to TDR.

111 Vulnerable Consumer Register Application Form

Complete this application form if you would like One New Zealand to consider you (or someone you are applying on behalf of) to be covered by the 111 Contact Code ("111 Code").

The 111 Code ensures that people who are more likely to need to contact 111, and who have a home phone line that doesn't work in a power failure (with no other means of contacting 111 at their house), are provided with a means to contact the 111 emergency services in the event of a power failure.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

A Vulnerable Consumer must meet all of the following criteria:

1. You (or someone in your household) is at particular risk of needing to call 111 emergency services for health, safety, or disability reasons; and
2. You have a landline service provided over Fibre or Wireless Landline (technology). Note: The Code only applies to landline voice services. Broadband only customers cannot apply; and
3. You (or a person in your household) have no means to contact the 111 emergency service at the premises that can be operated for a continuous 8-hour period in the event of a power failure.

This form can ONLY be completed by one of the following people:

- A One New Zealand customer (the Account holder);

- A person who is listed as an authority on the customer's account; or
- The customer or person listed as an authority on the customer's account on behalf of someone who lives at the premises where the home phone line is supplied.

Your application

Before submitting your application, please check that you have:

- Read the information guide;
- Read the eligibility criteria;
- Completed the application form; and
- Provided the information in support of the application (either Nominated Person's details or supporting documentation).

Submitting your application form and contact us details:

1. Emailing it to 111register@one.nz;
2. Calling us on 0508 438 448 between 8am and 7pm Monday to Friday
