Disassemble Log Splitter Wheels & Front Stand

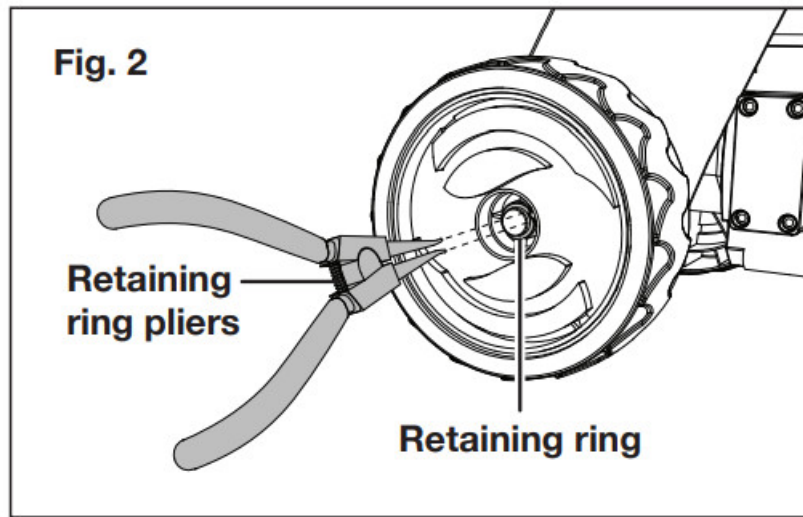

Log splitter sold separately

Tools required: screwdriver + wrench set

1. To remove the hub cap from the wheels, push the snap fittings out from the back of the wheel using a screwdriver (Fig. 1).

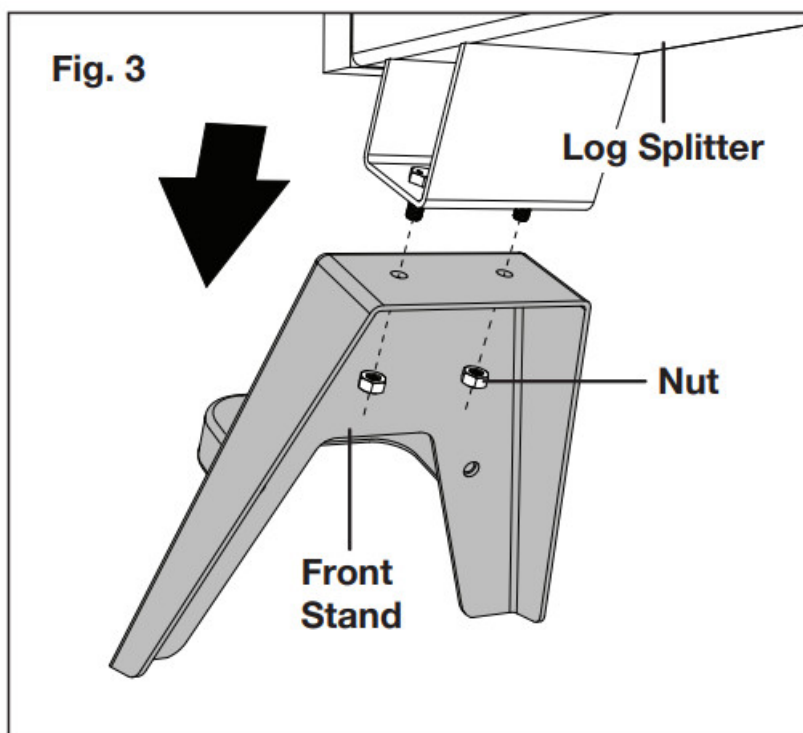

2. Remove the retaining ring from the end of the log splitter axle using the provided retaining ring pliers (Fig. 2).

3. Pull the wheels off the log splitter.

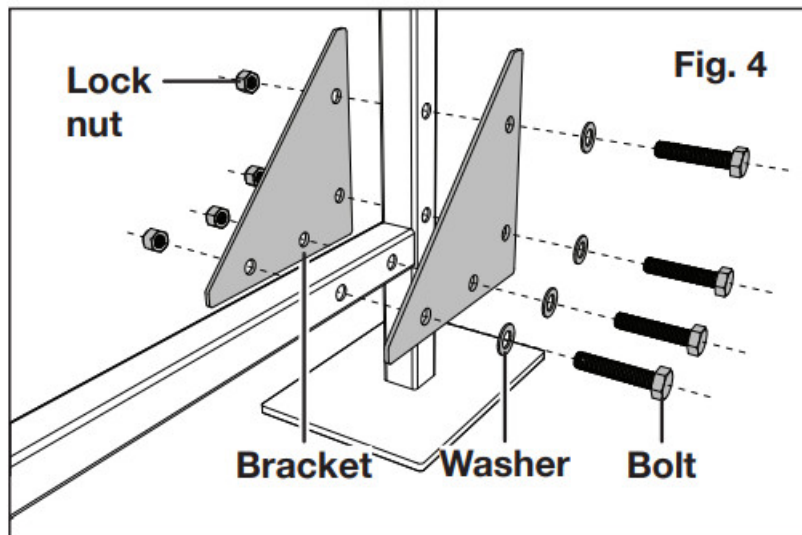

4. Detach the front stand of the log splitter by removing the nuts underneath (Fig. 3).

Support Stand Assembly

NOTE: Due to the weight of the log splitter, we highly recommend assembling the unit with the help of at least one other person.

1. Fix the beam, front post, and the two brackets together using four sets of bolts, washers, and lock nuts (Fig. 4).

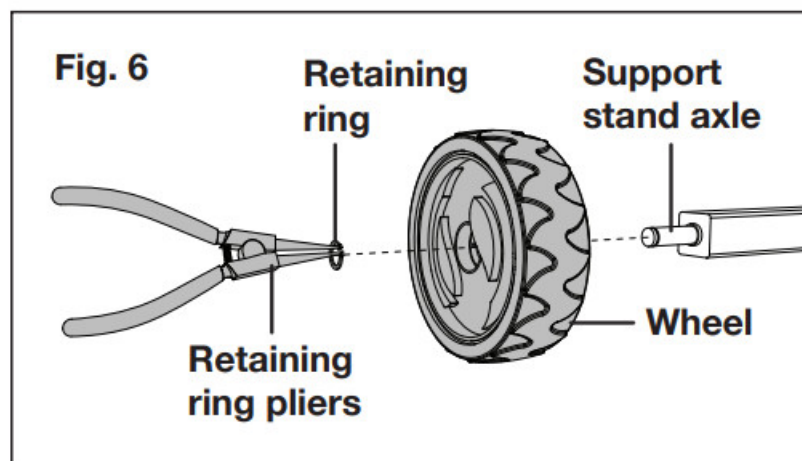

2. Slide the other end of the beam through the support stand axle, then loosely thread the screw knob into the nut (Fig. 5).

NOTE: Do not tighten down the screw knob yet.

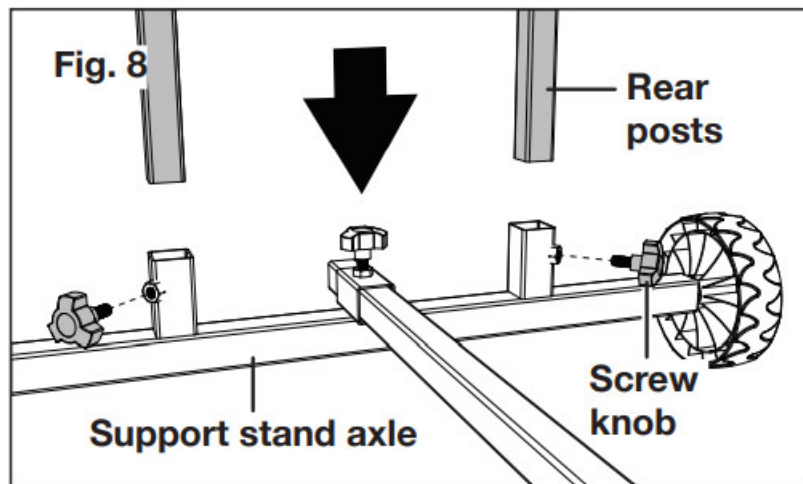

3. Slide the wheels onto the support stand axle and secure them in place using the retaining rings (Fig. 6).

4. Snap the hub caps back onto the wheels.
5. Install both rear posts onto the log splitter axle through the bottom holes (Fig. 7).

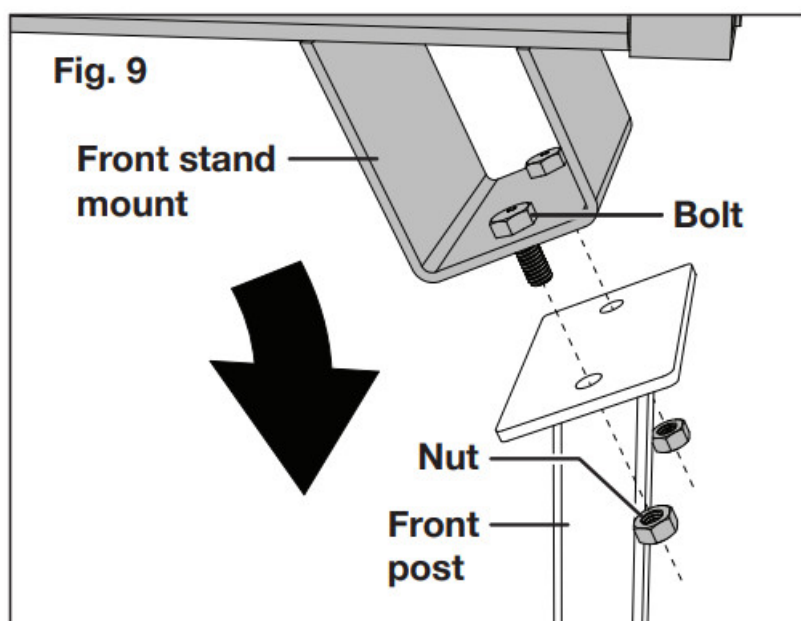

6. Insert the other end of both rear posts through the vertical box sections on the support stand axle. Tighten using the two remaining screw knobs (Fig. 8).

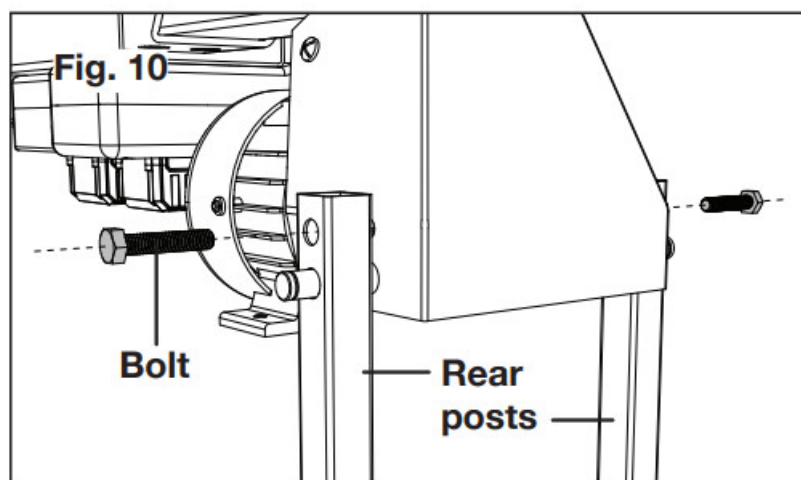

7. Pivot the log splitter so that the front stand mount rests on top of the front post. Fix them together using the nuts and bolts disassembled from the front stand (Fig. 9).

NOTE: The front post may need to shift forwards or backward in order to match the bottom of the front stand mount. This is why the middle screw knob should only be threaded on loosely.

8. Tighten the middle screw knob (Fig. 5).
9. Fix the rear posts to the log splitter using the two remaining bolts (Fig. 10)
