CARE & MAINTENANCE

- Dust often with a dry cloth; to clean the salt surface without damaging it, use a delicate, dry microfiber cloth.
- Steer clear of direct sunlight; extended exposure to it might change the salt lamp's color and texture.
- Store in a low-humidity environment; if not used for very long, keep in a dry, cool location.
- Never clean with a damp cloth; salt absorbs moisture, thus avoid using wet towels.
- Keep Away from Pets & Children: Should the salt material be within reach, pets could lick or gnaw it.
- Turn it off when not in use to help the LED last as long as it should and cut excessive energy use.
- Handle it carefully; since it is hand-carved and delicate, try not to knock it over or drop it.
- Deep cleaning calls for a little brush. Hard-to-reach locations can have dust removed with a soft-bristled brush.
- Check for wear and tear on your USB cable; if it frays or stops working, replace it.
- Steer clear of putting close to AC or Heaters. Temperature changes quickly can influence the durability of the salt.
- Do Not Use Cleaning Chemicals: Strong cleaning agents could alter the natural salt content.
- Applied in a well-ventilated area, it helps to prevent too much moisture accumulation on the salt surface.
- Store in a plastic bag if not in use for a long to help stop the lamp from accumulating moisture.
- If you are hooked to a wall adapter, utilize a surge protector to stop electrical damage.

- Look for any surface changes; if the salt seems to “sweat,” or leak moisture, move it right away to a drier spot.
