DIMENSIONS & SPECIFICATIONS

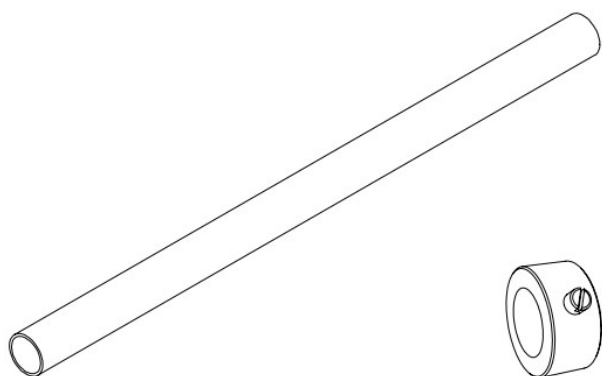

The wood of the Wheelbench is untreated. It can be treated with oil to preserve the original wood color. If the wood is not treated, it will turn grey over time. If the wheel causes grease stains on the wood, these can easily be removed with a damp cloth and diluted soap

Attention!

There is only one way both of the wooden boards will fit on the b-pro – files, because the screw holes are arranged differently

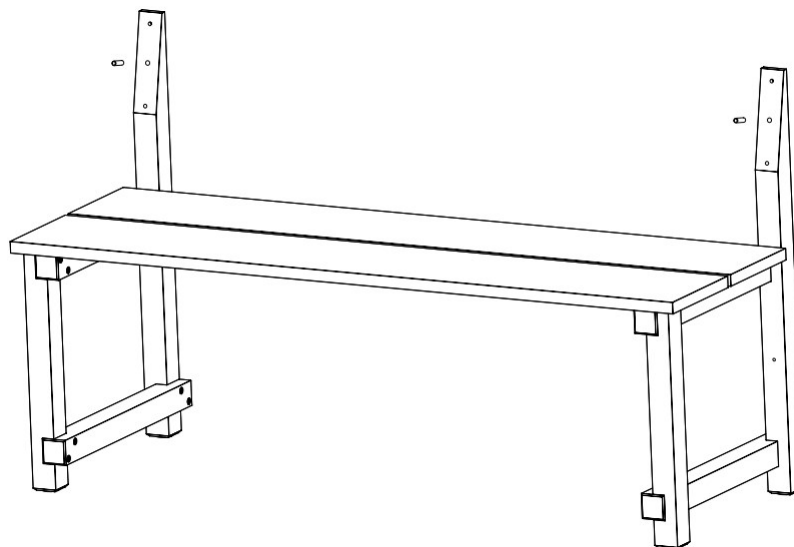

Step 3

Place the two wooden boards on the bottom of the profiles and press down onto the dowels. Then fasten them with eight medium (50mm) screws.

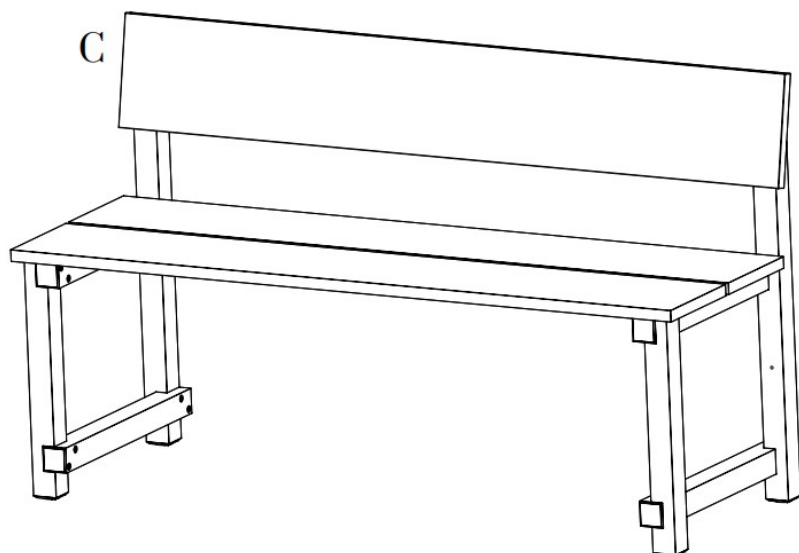

Step 4

Place two dowels in the legs where the backrest will be placed

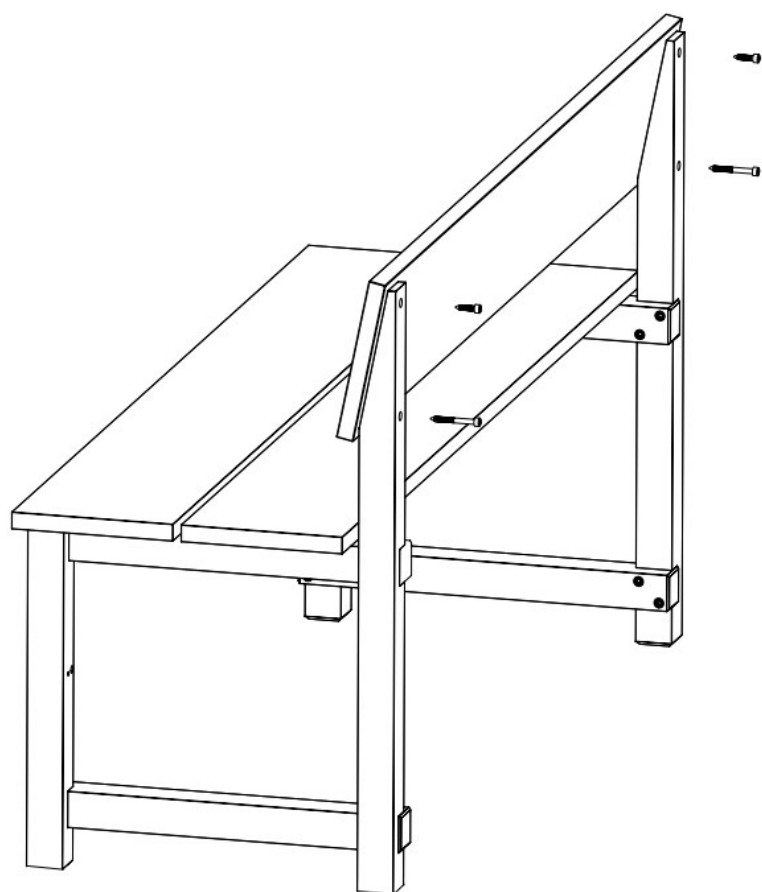

Step 5

Place the wooden board on the backrest and push it onto the dowels. Pay attention to the sticker indicating the top of the backrest.

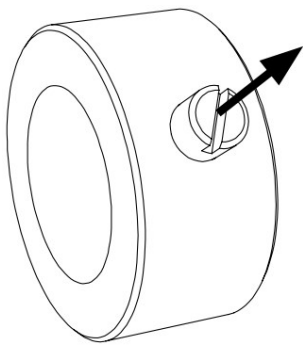

Step 6

Fasten the backrest with two small (25mm) and two medium (50mm) screws

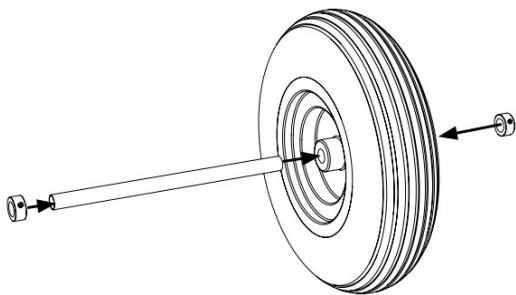

Step 7

Loosen the set screws in both collars so that the collars can be placed over the axle.

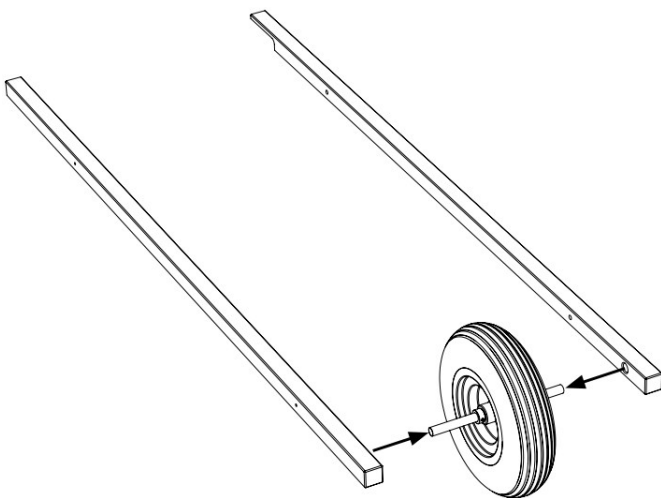

Step 8

Place the axle inside the wheel and slide the collars over the axle on both sides of the wheel. Do not tighten the set screws yet.

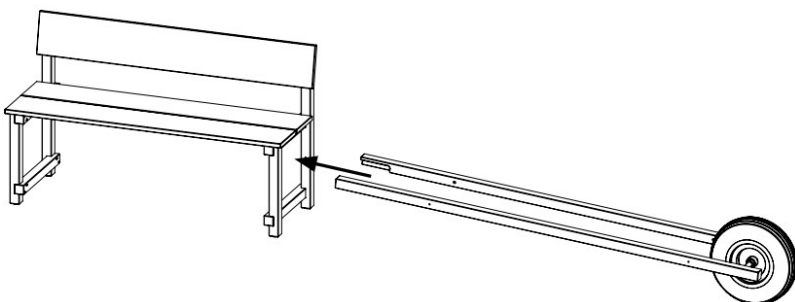

Step 9

Place the axle in the designated holes of the handles

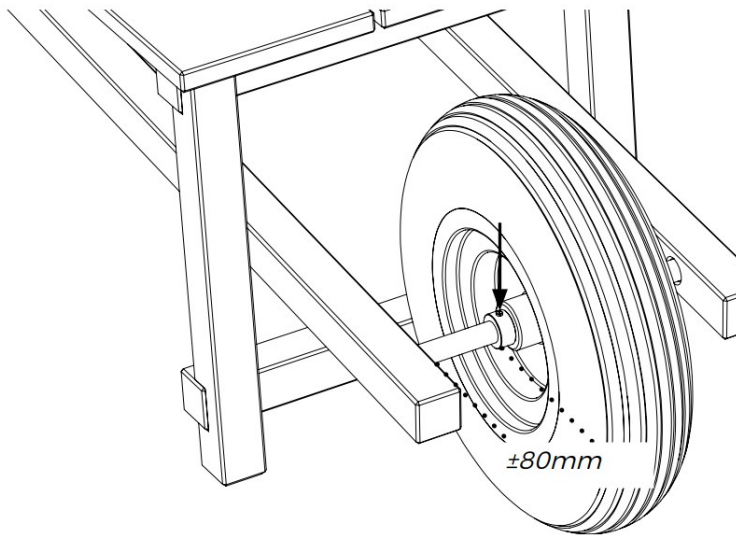

Step 10

Slide the handlebars in between the legs of the bench and secure with four large (70mm) screws.

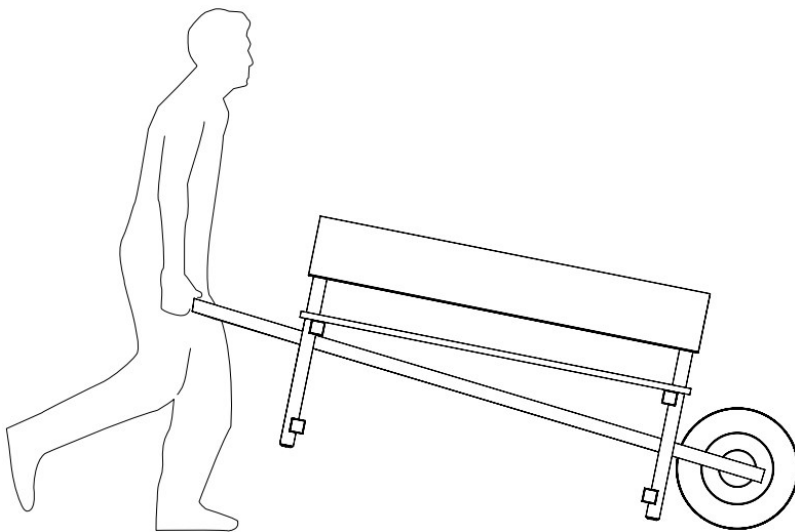

Step 11

Make sure the wheel is center. The distance between the inside of the handles and the collars should be close to 80mm. Leave a small space between the collars and the wheel so that the wheel can turn easily. Now tighten the set screws with a flat screwdriver so that the collars are fixed.

Step 12

The wheelbench is now ready to be used!
